

ELDER

Governance

The word 'Presbyterian' comes from the Greek word for 'elder.' Elders are chosen by people of the congregation to help lead the church together with the ministers. The body of elders elected to govern our congregation is called a Session.

The secular and financial affairs of the church are managed like those of many New England towns, with an annual meeting to select the church leaders. Moorings Presbyterian Church holds its Annual Meeting each year on a Sunday in January. During this meeting, the congregation receives the budget and full financial report of the prior year, and elects elders and deacons. The continuing management of our church is provided by the Session, with a clerk and treasurer working in concert with the ministers and church staff.

WHAT IS AN ELDER?

As there were in Old Testament times elders for the government of the people, so the New Testament Church provided persons with particular gifts to share in governing and ministry. Elders are chosen by the people. Together with ministers of the Word and Sacrament, they exercise leadership, government, and discipline and have responsibilities for the life of a particular church as well as the church at large, including ecumenical relationships. They shall serve faithfully as members of the session. (G-10.0102) When elected commissioners to higher governing bodies, elders participate and vote with the same authority as ministers of the Word and Sacrament, and they are eligible for any office.

ELDER RESPONSIBILITIES:

Elders should be persons of faith, dedication, and good judgment. Their manner of life should be a demonstration of the Christian gospel, both within the church and in the world. (G-6.0106) a. It is the duty of elders, individually and jointly, to strengthen and nurture the faith and life of the congregation committed to their charge. Together with the pastor, they should encourage the people in the worship and service of God, equip and renew them for their tasks within the church and for their mission in the world, visit and comfort and care for the people, with special attention to the poor, the sick, the lonely, and those who are oppressed. They should inform the pastor and session of those persons and structures which may need special attention. They should assist in worship. They should cultivate their ability to teach the Bible and may be authorized to supply places which are without the regular ministry of the Word and Sacrament. In specific circumstances and with proper instruction, specific elders may be authorized by the presbytery to administer the Lord's Supper in accord with G-11.0103z. Those duties which all Christians are bound to perform by the law of love are especially incumbent upon elders because of their calling to office and are to be fulfilled by them as official responsibilities.
