

LOW-COUNTRY SHRIMP BOIL

Saturday, April 24, 2010 ~ 4:00-7:00 pm

at the home of Jill and Bill Keith
100 Myrtle Road in Pine Ridge Estates

Famous in the Low Country of Georgia and South Carolina, this dish is a central pillar in the culinary tradition of the South. Also known as Frogmore Stew, named after the Frogmore community on St. Helena Island near Beaufort, it best represents the essential simplicity of low-country cuisine.

Relax, it does not contain frogs. It combines fresh shrimp, savory sausage, red potatoes and newly shucked corn in an all-in-one pot. A finger-lickin' feast...more an event than a meal!

The Keith's southern-like home and majestic live oaks are welcoming, calming, and create the perfect ambience of a southern plantation. Prepare to be treated with exceptional graciousness.

Come, enjoy a heaping mound of this deliciousness! You will savor the memory of comfort food shared with great friends.
